

Online availability of African studies journals in African universities – current issues (not back-files)

Summary: September 2011

This is for current issue availability of journals, and ignores substantial back-file collections, including availability through JSTOR (which is free to all African universities). Journals may also be available through other schemes not included here (data not readily available). This also does not include any subscriptions universities purchase directly, in print or online, which may occur where the national consortia has not chosen to purchase a particular collection. See notes below for an explanation of schemes and eligibility. Subscriptions change annually, so this should only be taken as a snapshot of current availability. For general guidance on access to journals in African universities see www.africadesk.ac.uk/asauk/pages/research-resources/access-journals

Explanation of access schemes

PERii – Programme for the Enhancement of Research Information, multidisciplinary, run by INASP in Oxford – www.inasp.info/perii

INASP have a group of core partner countries, where most of their work takes place, and which can select from the full range of subscriptions they've negotiated. In Africa these are as below..

Côte d'Ivoire	Kenya	Malawi	Tanzania	Zimbabwe
Ethiopia	Lesotho	Mozambique	Uganda
Ghana	Madagascar	Rwanda	Zambia

Discounted subscriptions (around 90% reductions) are arranged and paid by national consortia, in some cases with external (donor) funding, in most through pooled funding at the national level, with each university member contributing. Publishers offer collections at discounted rates to most countries in Africa. Below are countries with current subscriptions (2011) to the particular packages needed to access the African studies titles listed above. Other countries are typically entitled to purchase the same packages at the discounted rates but have chosen not to or have been unable to afford the subscription.

- Cambridge: Universities in Ethiopia, Kenya, Mozambique, Rwanda, Tanzania, Uganda, Zambia
- Oxford: Universities in Ethiopia, Ghana, Kenya, Madagascar, Malawi, Mozambique, Rwanda, Tanzania, Uganda, Zambia, Zimbabwe
- Project Muse: Universities in Côte d'Ivoire, Ethiopia, Ghana, Kenya, Mozambique, Rwanda

- Taylor and Francis: Ethiopia, Kenya, Tanzania, Zimbabwe

Other 'network countries' may be entitled to some of the negotiated free subscriptions, where the country has a local coordinator in place: Burkina Faso; Cameroon; Cape Verde; Congo (Brazzaville), Congo, Dem. Rep.; Egypt; Eritrea; Guinea; Mali; Nigeria; Somalia; Sudan; Swaziland; Togo; Tunisia.

There is no local coordinator in place in: Angola; Burundi; Central African Republic; Chad; Comoros; Djibouti; Gambia, The; Guinea-Bissau; Liberia; Mauritania; Morocco; Niger; Sao Tome and Principe; Sierra Leone

Research4Life

The collective name for three UN schemes in development areas – health, agriculture, environment. However, between them also include titles in sociology, anthropology, economics, etc

HINARI – health, run by WHO www.who.int/hinari

AGORA – agriculture, run by FAO www.aginternetwork.org

OARE – environment, run by UNEP www.oaresciences.org

The three schemes have a Band 1 (free access) and a Band 2 ($1000 per annum). All of the African countries listed below are Band 1 and thus get free access at no cost to the university or user.

Angola	Congo	Ghana	Mauritania	Somalia
Benin	Côte d'Ivoire	Guinea	Mozambique	South Sudan
Burkina Faso	Democratic Republic of Congo	Kenya	Namibia	Sudan Swaziland
Burundi	Djibouti	Lesotho	Niger	Togo
